Soil Samples Solve the Case!

Mrs. Venable's Forensic Science class stepped into the role of investigators, working to determine what type of truck "fled the scene" using scientific evidence. Students analyzed soil samples by testing pH levels and conductivity with digital probes, applying real-world forensic techniques to support their conclusions.

The hands-on investigation challenged students to think critically, collaborate, and use data-driven reasoning, bringing forensic science to life through an engaging, crime-scene-style scenario.
